

Bibi the Bee

By Rosamund Portus

Words and illustrations by Rosamund Portus

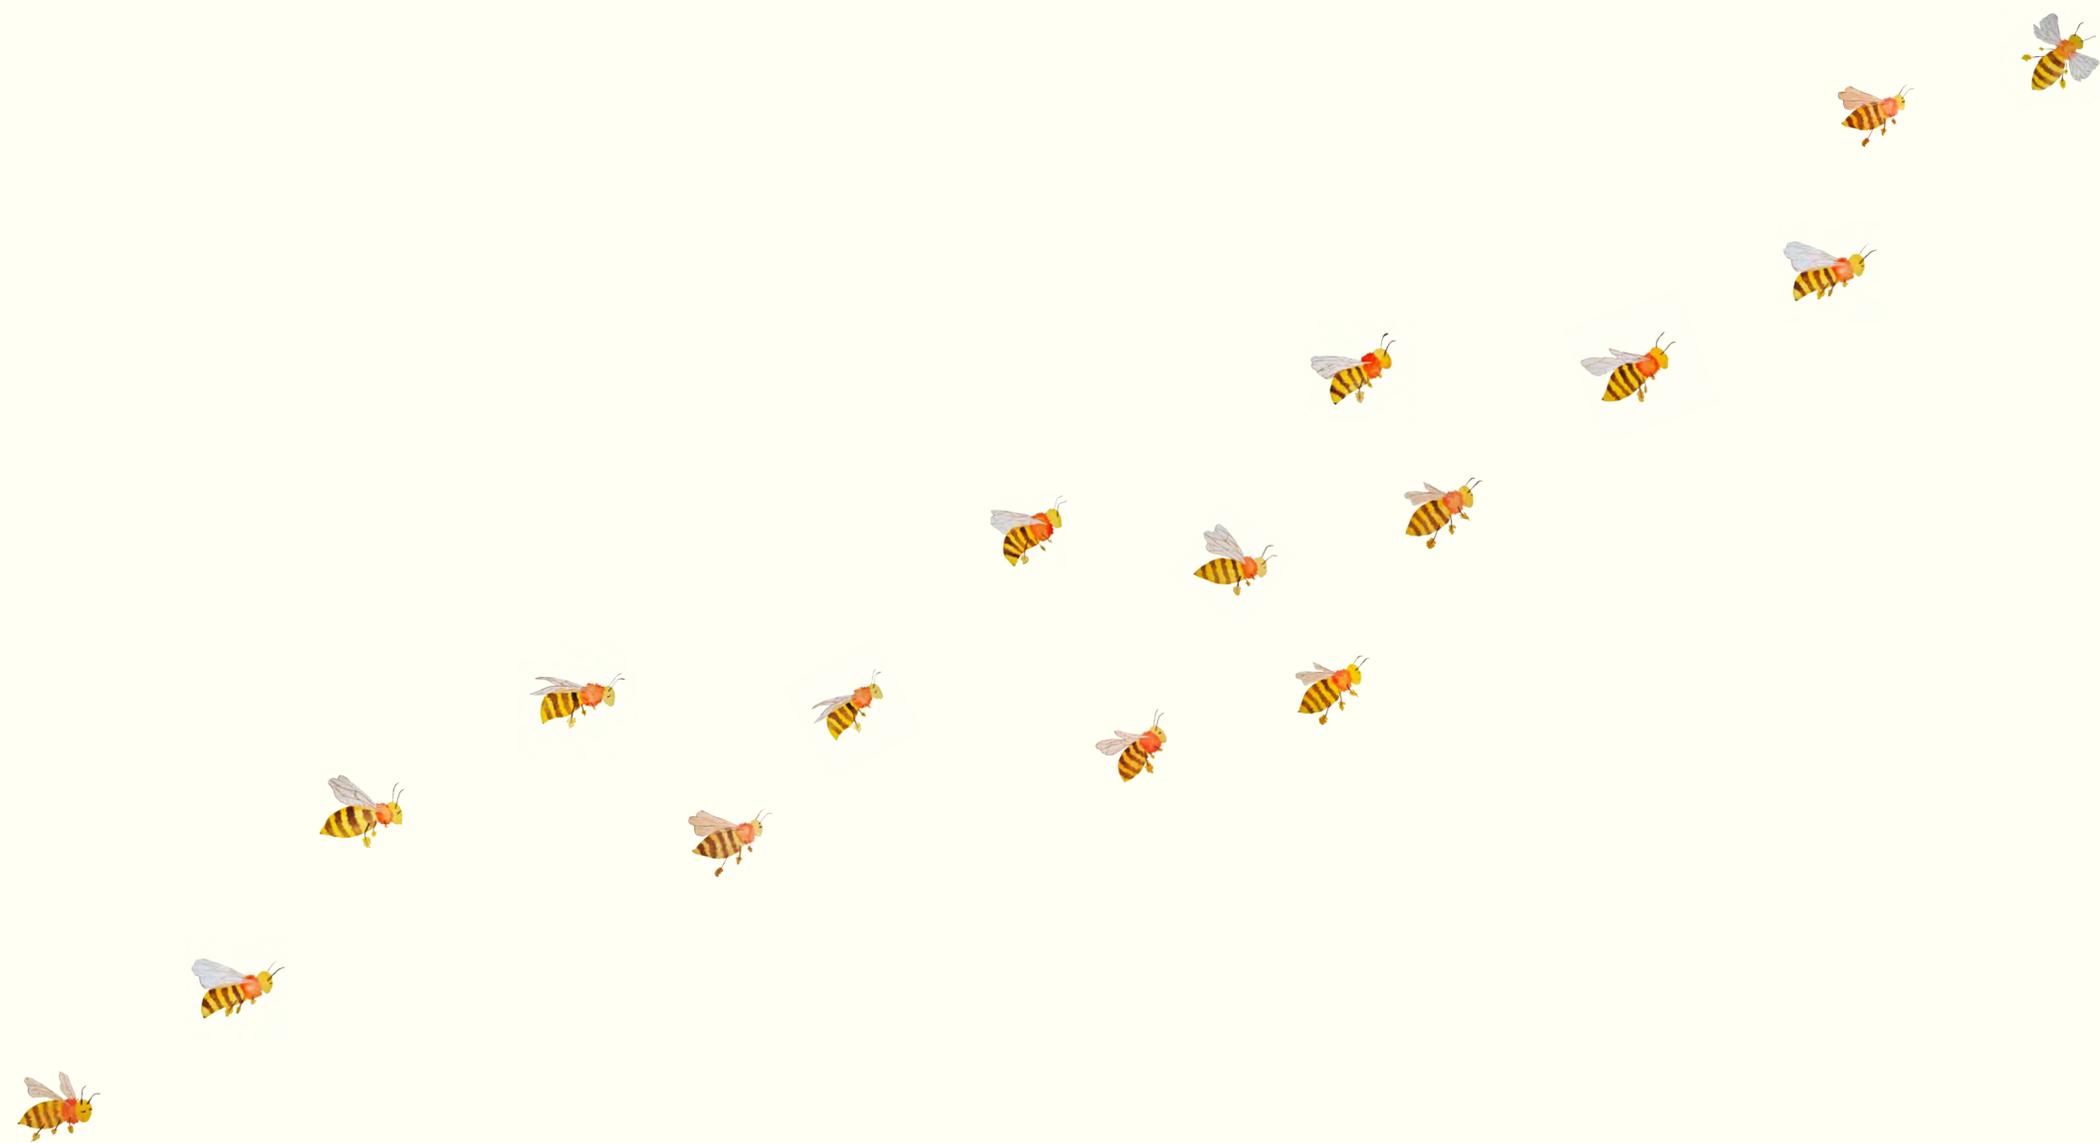

Editing by Jonah Hebron

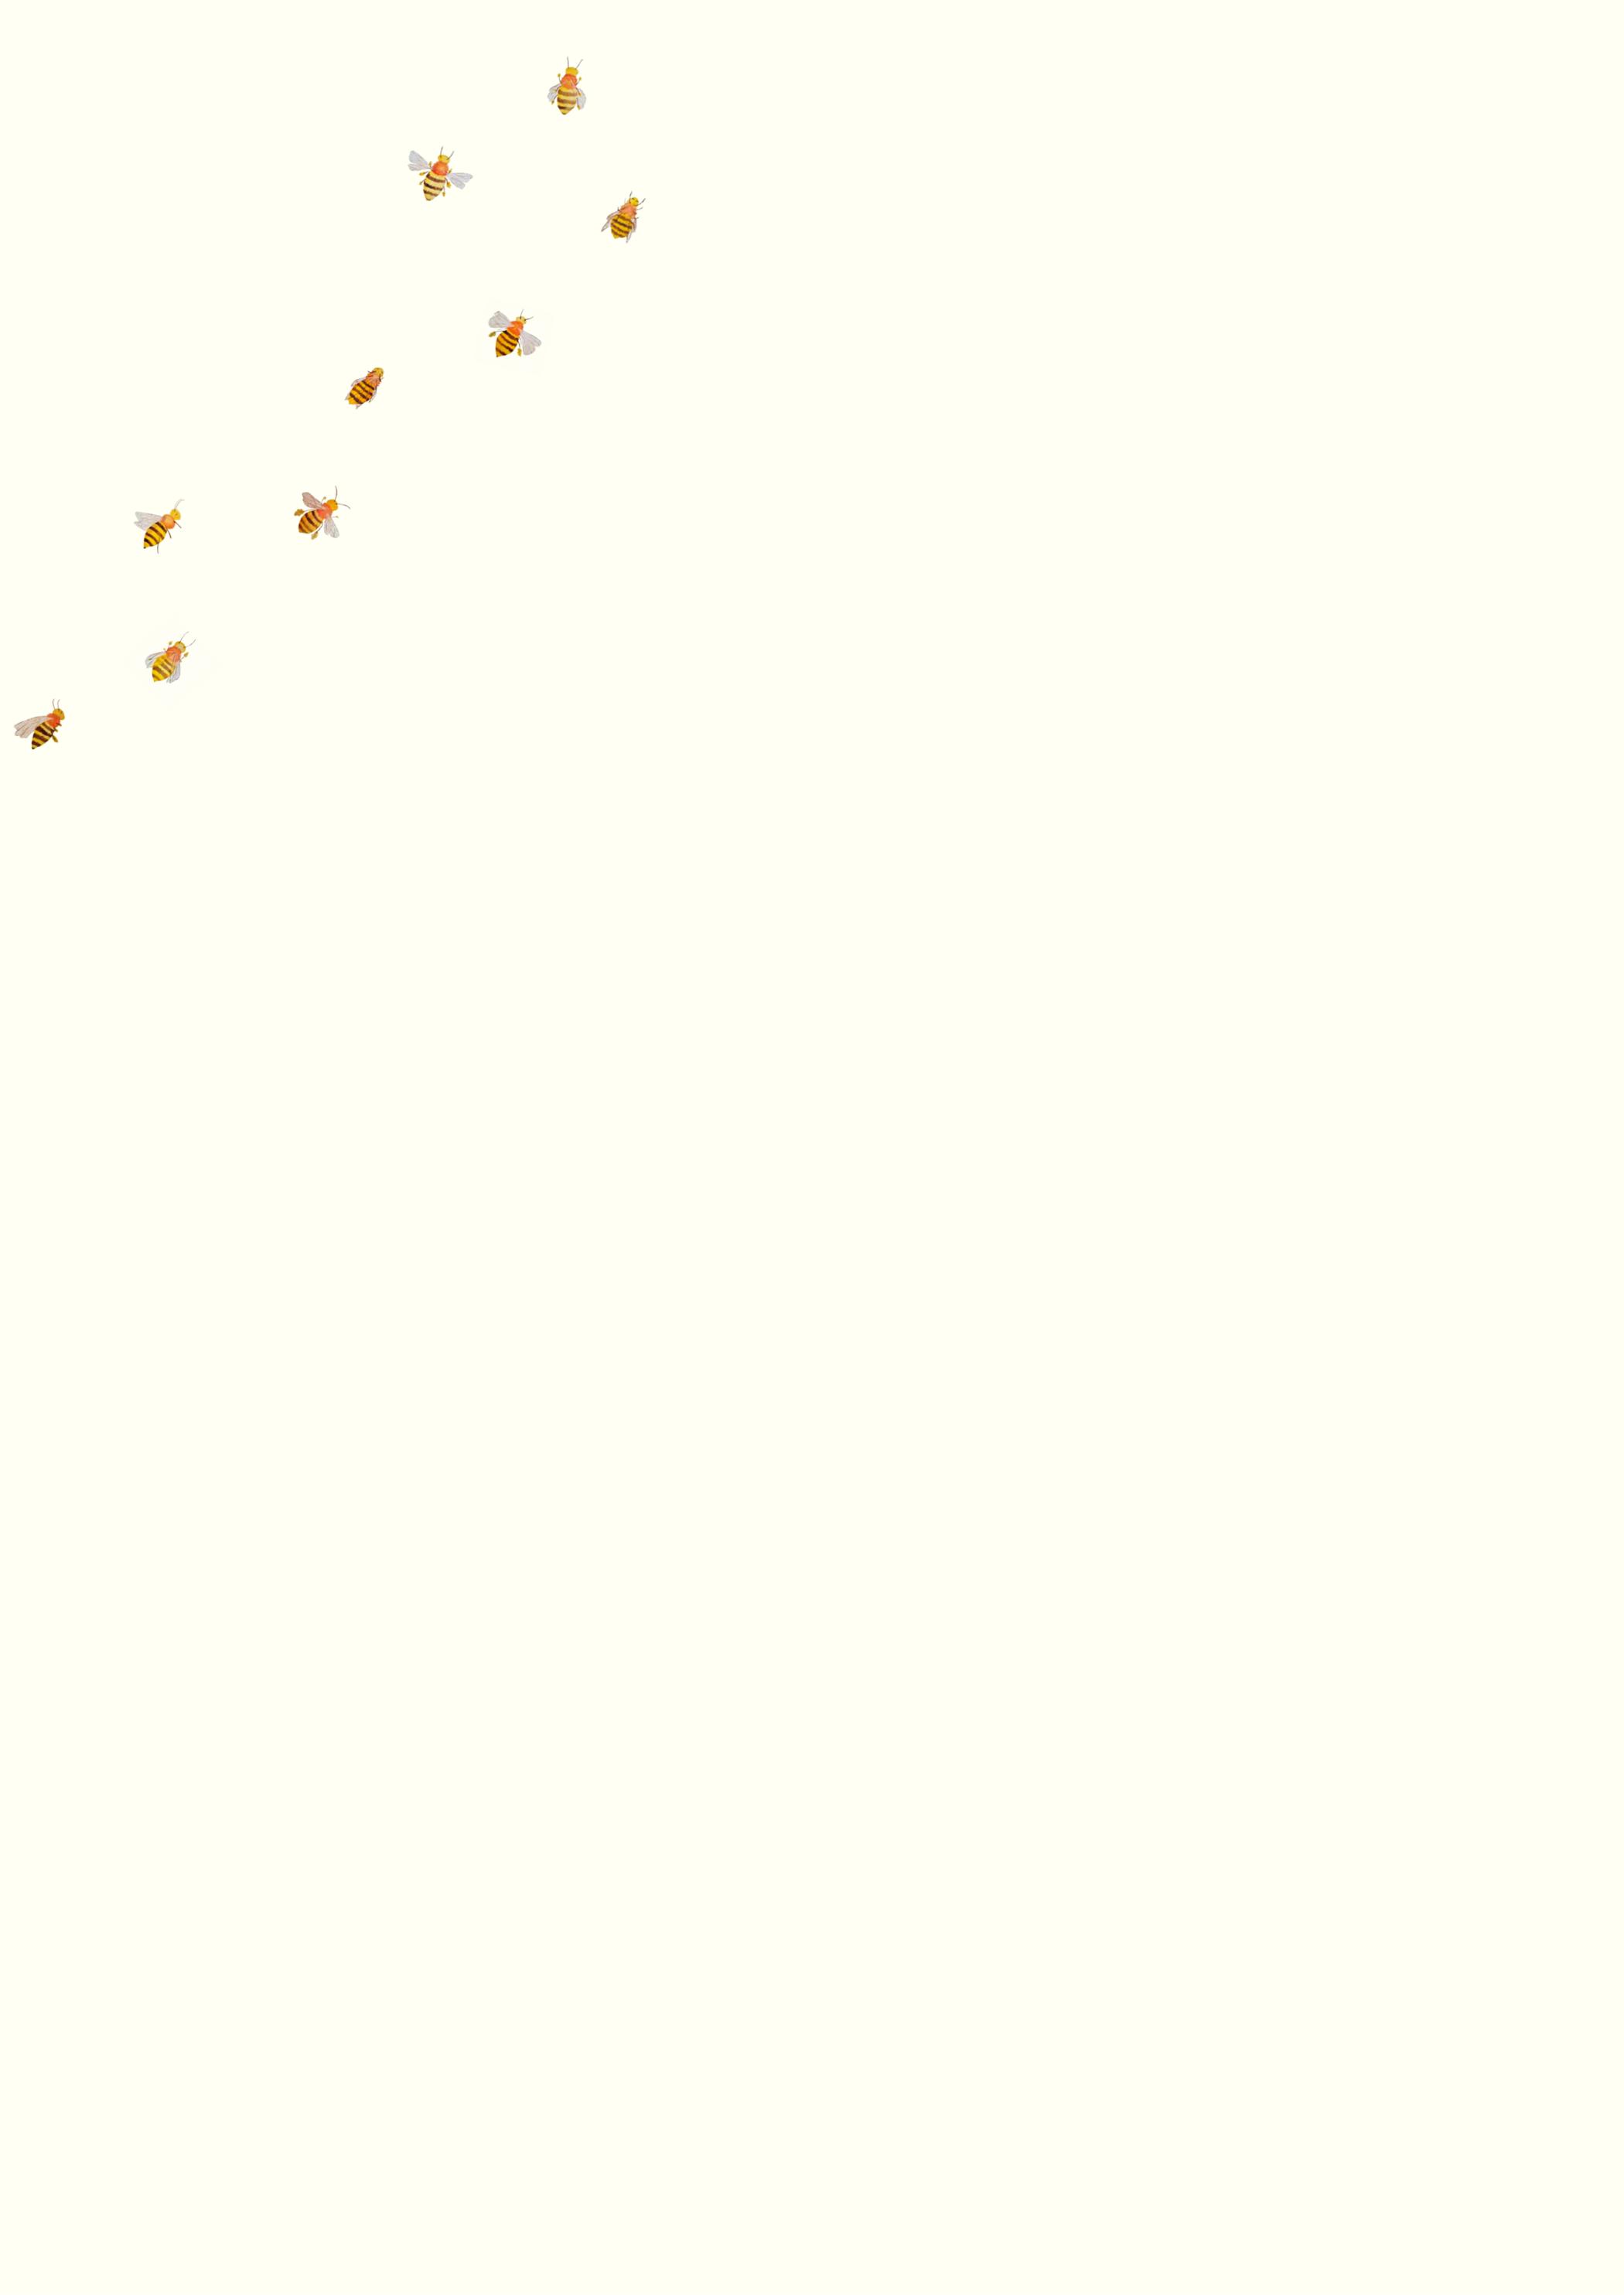

With special thanks to Bonnie, Roo, and Bo

2025

This book belongs to

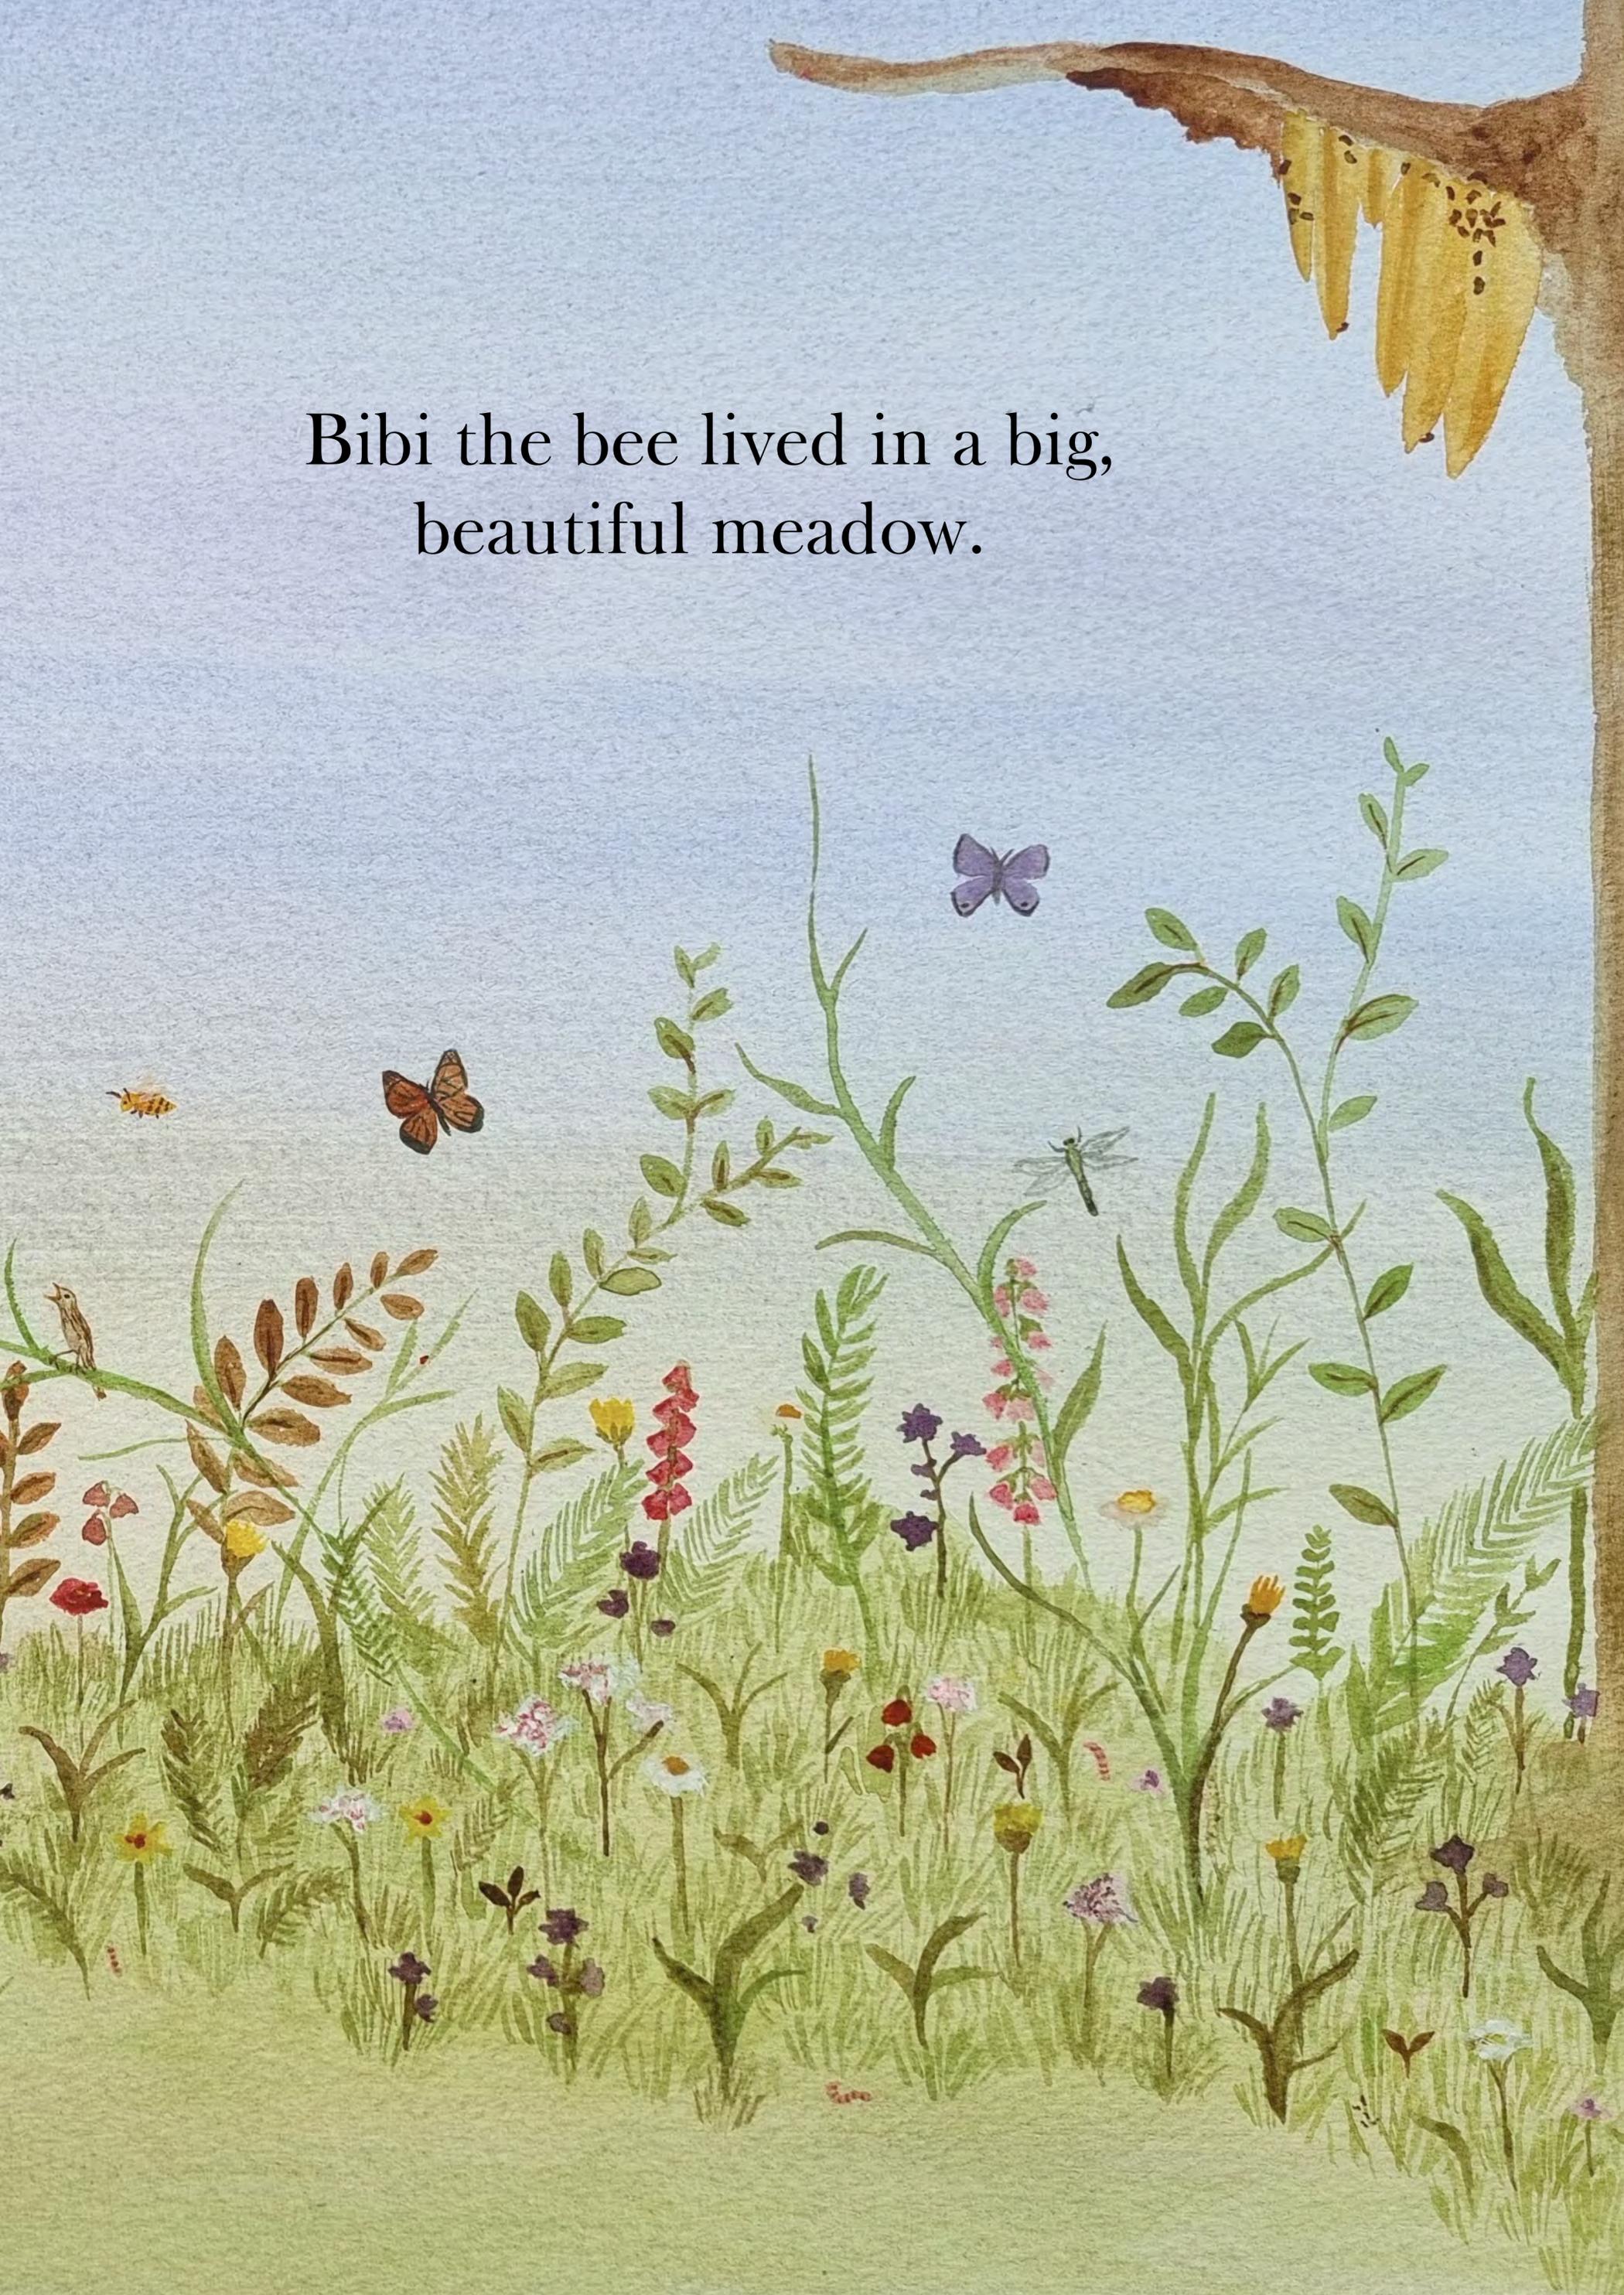

There once lived a bee
called Bibi the bee.

Bibi the bee lived in a big,
beautiful meadow.

Bibi the bee loved visiting flowers, but they were getting harder to find.

One day, Bibi the bee
noticed a field in her
meadow.

The next day, Bibi the bee noticed a brick wall in her
meadow.

That wasn't there yesterday!

Then, the day after that, Bibi the bee noticed an entire block of flats.

That definitely wasn't there yesterday, she thought!

Soon after, a young girl called Emily
moved into the flats.

Emily saw Bibi the bee
looking for flowers, and decided to help.

Emily looked by her favourite tree. No
flowers here!

Emily looked in the big, blue pond. No flowers there!

Emily even got on the swings to look. No flowers anywhere!

Emily decided that this would not do.

So, she planted lots of flowers.

She told all of her friends.

She made little homes
for insects to live in.

She even told the farmer that he needed to plant more flowers!

He planted his flowers next to the field.

The farmer told the grown-ups
that they needed to plant more flowers too!

They planted their flowers
next to the road.

Soon there were plenty of flowers, enough for Bibi the bee
and all of her friends!

Can you spot Bibi?

